
peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Bo Raxo - 2009/07/31 08:36

Charlize, baby, if you need me, just pick up the phone and I'm there for ya. And this time, I promise to wear pants. The animated version of Aeon Flux was pretty interesting (though drawn terribly, the people all looked like wasps). This movie has a small chance of being quite good (and a large chance of being unbelievably bad). Can't find any details on the injury, anybody know anything? Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American <http://romanticmovies.about.com/od/theroncharlize/a/theroninj090104.htm> Charlize Theron Injured Making Aeon Flux Academy Award-winning actress Charlize Theron (Monster) suffered an injury while filming the Paramount/MTV movie, Aeon Flux. The production will be shut down for several weeks while Theron's injuries heal. Charlize Theron went through intensive training to prepare for her lead role in the action thriller, Aeon Flux. The film marks Theron's first real venture into a high-flying action role. Aeon Flux is set 400 years in the future, when disease has wiped out the majority of the earth's population except for one walled, protected city-state, Bregna, ruled by a congress of scientists. Theron plays the title role of Aeon Flux, the top operative in the underground Monican rebellion, led by the Handler, played by Frances McDormand. When Aeon is sent on a mission to kill the government's leader (Martin Csokas), she uncovers a world of secrets, which makes her question everything she thought she knew.* The film also stars Jonny Lee Miller, Sophie Okonedo, and Caroline Chikezie, and was written by Phil Hay and Matt Manfredi. Aeon Flux the movie is based on characters created by Peter Chung. The film's being directed by Karyn Kusama and is scheduled for release in 2005

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by scorpionk...@attnospam.net - 2009/07/31 08:36

Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American You knew we'd be coming for this. No shit? She's half? I can just imagine all those KKK monkeys getting ill now that they realize they've been raping their sisters while fantasizing about a black woman.

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Bo Raxo - 2009/07/31 08:36

Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American You knew we'd be coming for this. No shit? She's half? No, no, she was born and raised in South Africa. She's white. She moved to the U.S. She is an African-American. Now my pal Herman, he's black, about ten or twelve years ago he started up with this African American label. This guy was born and raised in L.A., smack in a nasty part of South Central. Hell, what is he, a South Central American? He's about as African as I am European - i.e., not at all. But born and raised in Africa, move to the U.S., you're African American. Doesn't matter if you're white or black.

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Ron - 2009/07/31 08:36

Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American You knew we'd be coming for this. No shit? She's half? Put this in the I'm not totally sure but category. I did know that she is from Africa, whether born there or moved I can't say, but she is a citizen of that country. So in a sense she is African-American. Whether she is in the sense of how that phrase is used to denote a race of peoples I can't say. Ron

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by JLplsSS - 2009/07/31 08:36

No, no, she was born and raised in South Africa. She's white. She moved to the U.S. She is an African-American. I don't see how this makes her American at all. Sorry, but living in the U.S. doesn't make one American. Donna My opinions might have changed, but not the fact that I am right.

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Ron - 2009/07/31 08:36

Bo Raxo <invasions_r...@thepentagon.removethis.com wrote in message <snip This movie has a small chance of being quite good (and a large chance of being unbelievably bad). </snip Is she gonna wear the same SKIMPY outfit as the girl in the animated version did? If so the chances of a profitable (if not very good) movie are huge!! :) Ron

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by scorpionk...@attnospam.net - 2009/07/31 08:36

Doesn't matter if you're white or black. Ya got me.

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Child - 2009/07/31 08:36

:) Ron I am sure! there is no point in aeon flux without skin.

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Bo Raxo - 2009/07/31 08:36

doesn't make one American. In my book, if you come to this country with practically nothing, and earn millions of dollars, you're one of us. Actually, she has said she wanted to be a U.S. citizen. Last I heard she had started the paperwork, I haven't seen whether it's completed yet but I don't keep up on celeb news. http://heavenlycelebrities.com/charlize_theron.html Her U.S. citizenship is still pending So, she is an African American.

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by ImNot911 - 2009/07/31 08:36

From: Bo Raxo No, no, she was born and raised in South Africa. She's white. She moved to the U.S. She is an African-American. That's how I see it too, Bo. Didn't you hear about the white kid who was suspended from school over this issue? White African-American boy not 'black' enough for award National debate sparked after Caucasian student seeking 'race-based honor' booted out of school

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Bo Raxo - 2009/07/31 08:36

the U.S. She is an African-American. That's how I see it too, Bo. Didn't you hear about the white kid who was suspended from school over this issue? Yes, I saw that. Clearly the principal had no sense of humor - which seems to be a requirement for that job, from what I can tell.

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by d~ - 2009/07/31 08:36

http://heavenlycelebrities.com/charlize_theron.html Her U.S. citizenship is still pending So, she is an African American. Bo, if her citizenship is pending, wouldn't she still be considered a South African? d~ * FYI: I don't check mail at this @ddy.

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Glenn and Betsy - 2009/07/31 08:36

http://heavenlycelebrities.com/charlize_theron.html Her U.S. citizenship is still pending So, she is an African American. Bo, if her citizenship is pending, wouldn't she still be considered a South African? d~ That's what I think too. She should be just Top African Actress Injured . Betsy

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Michael Snyder - 2009/07/31 08:36

Charlize Theron Injured Making Aeon Flux Academy Award-winning actress Charlize Theron (Monster) suffered an injury while filming the Paramount/MTV movie, Aeon Flux. The production will be shut down for several weeks while Theron's injuries heal. Charlize Theron went through intensive training to prepare for her lead role in the action thriller, Aeon Flux. The film marks Theron's first real venture into a high-flying action role. Aeon Flux is set 400 years in the future, when disease has wiped out the majority of the earth's population except for one walled, protected city-state, Bregna, ruled by a congress of scientists. Theron plays the title role of Aeon Flux, the top operative in the underground Monican rebellion, led by the Handler, played by Frances McDormand. When Aeon is sent on a mission to kill the government's leader (Martin Csokas), she uncovers a world of secrets, which makes her question everything she thought she knew.* The film also stars Jonny Lee Miller, Sophie Okonedo, and Caroline Chikezie, and was written by Phil Hay and Matt Manfredi. Aeon Flux the movie is based on characters created by Peter Chung. The film's being directed by Karyn Kusama and is scheduled for release in 2005

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Michael Snyder - 2009/07/31 08:36

I can just imagine all those KKK monkeys getting ill now that they realize they've been raping their sisters while fantasizing about a black woman. Read it again...

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Michael Snyder - 2009/07/31 08:36

Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American You knew we'd be coming for this. No shit? She's half? No, no, she was born and raised in South Africa. She's white. She moved to the U.S. She is an African-American. Now my pal Herman, he's black, about ten or twelve years ago he started up with this African American label. This guy was born and raised in L.A., smack in a nasty part of South Central. Hell, what is he, a South Central American? He's about as African as I am European - i.e., not at all. But born and raised in Africa, move to the U.S., you're African American. Doesn't matter if you're white or black. I'm also reminded of your friend

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by scorpionk...@attnospam.net - 2009/07/31 08:36

of being quite good (and a large chance of being unbelievably bad). Can't find any details on the injury, anybody know anything? Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American Yep. I liked the story, posted here recently, of the white south-african boy who got in hot water by running for his school's most popular african-american student, or some such. Charlize, btw, is also the daughter of a spouse-killer, btw. Since you are the one posting this Michael, can we assume it was the mother who killed the father?

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Bo Raxo - 2009/07/31 08:36

Doesn't matter if you're white or black. I'm also reminded of your friend

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by Michael Snyder - 2009/07/31 08:36

Charlize, baby, if you need me, just pick up the phone and I'm there for ya. And this time, I promise to wear pants. The animated version of Aeon Flux was pretty interesting (though drawn terribly, the people all looked like wasps). This movie has a small chance of being quite good (and a large chance of being unbelievably bad). Can't find any details on the injury, anybody know anything? Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American Yep. I liked the story, posted here recently, of the white south-african boy who got in hot water by running for his school's most popular african-american student, or some such. Charlize, btw, is also the daughter of a spouse-killer, btw. Since you are the one posting this Michael, can we assume it was the mother who killed the father? Yup! Is this the first you've heard of it?

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by PattyC - 2009/07/31 08:36

http://heavenlycelebrities.com/charlize_theron.html Her U.S. citizenship is still pending So, she is an African American. Bo, if her citizenship is pending, wouldn't she still be considered a South African? d~ FYI, I heard Michael Reagan calling Teresa Heinz Kerry an African American recently. That is technically true. PattyC

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by TdN - 2009/07/31 08:36

Bo Raxo Yes, she is African-American Put this in the I'm not totally sure but category. I did know that she is from Africa, whether born there or moved I can't say, but she is a citizen of that country. So in a sense she is African-American. How would being a citizen of South Africa, as she is, make her African-American? She is a South African citizen currently residing in the United States. T.

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by formica63 - 2009/07/31 08:36

of that country. So in a sense she is African-American. How would being a citizen of South Africa, as she is, make her African-American? She is a South African citizen currently residing in the United States. I read an interesting article on this issue in the NYTimes a week ago (url below). It depends, I suppose, on what kinds of affiliations

=====

peter chung aeon OT: Top African-American Actress Injured

Posted by scorpion...@attnospam.net - 2009/07/31 08:36

mother who killed the father? Yup! Is this the first you've heard of it? I was unaware any woman ever killed a man without provocation... ;) Have a great three day weekend.

=====